everything
counts

Welcome to the 65th volume of Mentor High School Cardinal Notes. With such a large school, it is difficult to cover everything that counts, but this yearbook comes close. We certainly hope you find that it is one of the best yearbooks you have ever purchased. So what does count at Mentor High School? Everything!

The 1989-1990 Academic Decathlon team spends an evening roasting marshmallows and (of all things) pizza at co-advisor Mr. Allen's house.

Foreign exchange students, Tania Vasallo and Manu Giaconetti share in the festivities of the Homecoming parade.

Members of the Mentor High School Drama Department gather to entertain the crowd as a group of mimes in the Homecoming parade.

Cardinal Notes Vol. 65
Time To Get Away

Ahhh! The smell of cocoa butter blowing in the warm breeze. Summer came and went, all too fast though! What a scorching season we all lived through. But it didn’t matter for the students at Mentor High. In fact, we all tried our best to make it the summer vacation of our lives. Trips to exotic places, becoming extremely tan, shopping 'til we dropped, picking up babes on a Saturday night... Then again, there’s what really happened during summer, like visiting colleges, working, and even the dreaded road trips with the family.

But good and bad, we did it all — and in three short months, too!

Some students were fortunate enough to go on some exciting trips across the ocean to foreign countries, like those with the foreign language trip to England, France, and Spain.

"It was an experience," says senior Jenny Green, "definitely an experience!"

There they joined in the festivities celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Eiffel Tower. While in Spain, they even got to watch a bull fight! An awesome time was had by all.

Mike Krakowski quotes, "Is this a dagger I see before me?" as he decapitates Joe Paoly in a French chateau.

Tim Howson, Jenny Kryslak, Stephanie Pickett, and friend enjoying each other's company.
Mike Day discusses a rollercoaster conquering strategy with friends.

Jenny Green and friends show us the bench, a central part of any European tour.

Vicky Wolfe, Ken Pozun, Travis Campbell, and Jeff Vosen donning stylish hard hats in a Welsh slate mine.

Dawn Child, Missy Navada, and Kim Bodis show us how grand friendship can be.

Oh the Times They Are A-Changin’

Looking around, it seems like the city of Mentor has been on a roll for the past ten or so years. We live in the city that is probably one of the largest growing cities in the area. There have been new shopping centers all over, as well as the renovation of the Great Lakes Mall, and like they promised, it is definitely grand! The new food court has outdone Beachwood and the Galleria.

But the city of Mentor is not the only thing expanding around us, for Mentor High has found ways to make us the best high school we can be. We’ve got the new gym floor, the new sophomore unit office, and dare we even forget the new roof. We thank the administration for all of these wonderful improvements, but only one question remains: Why didn’t you put on the new roof during the summer?!
The Childcare and Development department has a new playground for daycare children.

J.C. Penney is feeling the aches and pains of a new facelift.

Mrs. Fulmer is sitting in comfort in the new blue 10th grade unit office.

The new gym floor — a gift only to those students who don’t walk on it with their street shoes.
Strutting Our Stuff

Rolled up pants. Skateboarding. Hats. Hair. Just having fun. These are some of the latest fads and fashions floating around here at Mentor High. Take a look around and you will not find one girl without rolled up cuffs. Then there’s the latest in hairstyles: the perm, the bob, the highlights, or the straight look. For guys it’s either the long, long straight look, or having your team number shaved on the side of your head.

It’s not just appearance, but also what we do to have a good time. Call it teenage culture. Skateboarding ranks up there with a great majority of students, but not as high up as “partying.” This page is dedicated to the student; this is student life, what we’re all about.

Jeff Vosen displays his ability to mark time in the rain.

Karen Knaus and Colleen Prunty explain the finer points of hat fashion to an eager Chris Couch.
Kris Laning and Kris Sirl giving us the latest in lunchroom etiquette.

Our friendly guidance people wearing their college choice.

Getting a little air time, Kevin?

Nick Smrdelj, our spirited senior class president, shows there is always time for a Poptart or two.

Bruce Eames, performing at a Top 25 show, displays the finer points in Mexican hatwear.

Emily Plescia and Vicki Carver, cheerleaders on duty at all hours of the day.
Does anyone really remember the first day of kindergarten? Believe it or not, that was the beginning of it all—the beginning of school life. On the first day of kindergarten everyone sat on carpet squares, listened to old records, and took turns feeding the fish. Everyone was equal. Now, as high school students, our classes are tracked. Our achievements are tested. Our progress is recorded. Never again will we return to the sanctity and equality of kindergarten, but we are an independent, carefree generation. In twenty years maybe we will remember what kindergarten was all about.

Straight From the Tap

Sophomore Brian Cox gets a drink of fresh spring water on a field trip to Stebbins Gulch on September 26th. The trip was a part of Mr. Houston's Geology class.

Locker Hysteria

Julie Meacham and Shannon McKenney, sophomores, are found cleaning their lockers in late October. Lockers are a common complaint among the students, as underclassmen are forced two students to one eight inch locker.
It's finally graduation time. All throughout our lives, we have looked forward to this moment — our Senior Year. This is probably the best year, and, of course, we should never forget it — friends, classes and school spirit.

Here Dave Seese shows off some of his Senior Spirit by being part of the Mentor Marching Band. Way to go, Dave!

The sign says it all! This is our time, Seniors.

EVERY LITTLE WORD COUNTS!

"It's a great feeling being a senior and knowing that you'll be a freshman all over again next year." — Jenny Green

"What was the question again?" — Michael Marcel
Don't forget your homework! How many times have you heard your mother say that? Probably millions of times. No day is complete without homework. The last bell does not mean that school is over. It only means that in a few minutes you will be peering into your locker looking for your homework. Bet you can't wait for school to end so you can forget all that homework. Guess again — rumor has it that they have homework in college too!
What a face! Here Mark Eppich is sitting mind-boggled in calculus. No doubt he is trying to absorb as much of Mr. Korcheck’s lesson as possible.
HOW DISGUSTING!

Remember back to Biology — sitting in class, feeling sick because you have a frog dissection tomorrow. Then think back to cutting it open. Let's admit, that was pretty gross. This year some students are back for Round Two. These lucky ones get to cut open not only frogs, but cats, too! Christine Kelleher, a student in Phase Elective Biology, defends dissection, though. She says that it is fun and not gross at all. The cat did look pretty bad, Christine did admit, but it was still great. No matter how you look at it, this is one of the most memorable experiences.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

It's your big senior year, the last at Mentor High School! Although your senior year can be one of the most memorable times in your life, it is also time to face reality. It's the time to answer the dreaded but all important question that your parents, teachers, and counselors have asked for years: What are you going to do with the rest of your life? Military? Employment? College? With all these choices, it is no wonder most students go crazy trying to make their decision. MHS attempts to make the decision easier in a variety of ways: the "Pathfinder" program, work study programs, college fair, scholarship information, and visitors from the military branches and many colleges during lunch modules. There's no excuse to say, "Well, Mom, we never went to visit that college!" Take advantage of these opportunities to talk to the colleges and career representatives that interest you. Like the MHS student in this picture, ask questions and get information. It's time to plan your future!
"My years at Mentor have been the best and worst of my life."
— Amy Artim

"Life is not a spectator sport."
— Tony Chen

IT'S BEEN ONE OF THOSE DAYS...

Just imagine! Tina Petrello went out to the parking lot only to discover that her car had a flat tire. Don't worry too much! This little predicament allowed a chance for Tony and Greg to show off their muscles and save the day!
Hey! It's B. J. Budny and his wonder dog, Boomer!

STUDY! STUDY! STUDY!

As one can easily see from Sheree Glowacki's expression, controversial cartoons are so amusing. What do you think?
Attention Seniors!

The Surgeon General has recently declared vending machines hazardous to your health. A student can go insane trying to operate them. Don’t you hate it when you are so hungry — almost to the point of starvation — and your candy bar gets stuck on the rack? Have you noticed how expensive these goodies are becoming? It seems that these machines are taking advantage of our empty stomachs. Hungry students, low on cash, walk around begging for a dime or two. It’s pathetic! Don’t get too frustrated, because there is always the school lunch. What a bargain!

Whether you are involved in sports, band, cheerleading, academic decathlon, or just a bunch of clubs, it is important to show that school spirit! Mentor High contains many individuals that give everything they got to make this school #1!

BEWARE SENIORS!

Did you ever find yourself quickly writing an English essay during your lunch period right before your class? Or studying for a vocabulary test in Spanish? Most likely, you have tried to get these things done last night but you were just too busy with sports, working, or talking on the phone. You seem to phase out on your classes more and more each day. Your homework seems more tedious and dull as the weeks pass. You are experiencing the evil spirit tempting most seniors — SENIORitis. This illness leaves its victims paralyzed with apathy. Don’t despair! There is one cure for this dreaded disease: GRADUATION!

Did you ever lose your voice in the middle of an English oral presentation? Did you ever win a sporting event? Do you remember when you accidentally bumped into THAT guy? Don’t let those memories fade away! Have your friends write down those wonderful experiences, embarrassing moments, or amusing tidbits here.
Years from now when you are looking back through your yearbook, you'll recall all those comical experiences you've had at MHS. With graduation drawing near, it's time for your friends to leave you something to remember them by. For example: "I, Wanda Sheridan, leave Kathy my quick reflexes so she can catch a ruler for a physics lab." Have fun!
What is it like to be a Junior? Rumor has it that it is the best time of your life. At this point in the game we are caught in the middle of everything. We are not the little guys anymore, but we are not on top either. It is a tough year because we have all those PSAT and PACT workshops and tests to take. By fall of 1990 we should be sending away for our college applications. Teachers, counselors, parents and friends are pressing us to make decisions about what we are going to do, what we are going to become, which college we are going to go to. With all this preparation for the future, there are also after-school activities, sports and part-time jobs. So where is the fun? It’s in the sharing of all these things with friends. After all:

Juniors are great!

Where It All Begins

We begin our journey through Mentor High School as sophomores. The new students that walk through the doors of this high school will be able to achieve the status of young, responsible adults as we prove that we can overcome any challenges that face us. As each year progresses, we will learn to contribute our ideas, opinions, and personalities to make our school better. Until we graduate in 1992, we will learn to grow as individuals as well as part of a group.

With each coming year, we will find ourselves striving for success, to show everyone that this class is the best. In the three years that we spend together we hope to prove that we can excel academically, in sports, and in other extra-curricular activities. We alone can shape our future and this is where it all begins.

What Do You Think?

We wanted to find out your views about Mentor High during your first year here. To do this, we compiled a survey about your thoughts and experiences. Eventually, we got this survey out to most of the sophomore class. In the following pages, we copied some of your best answers from the survey so you can see what other sophomore students thought. Some of these are pretty interesting and hopefully you’ll like them too. Enjoy!

Well, that’s it for the Sophomore Section. I put forth a lot of hard work to make this as enjoyable and exciting as possible. This year I decided to break the old tradition of picture sizes; I hoped you noticed that this year the Sophomore pictures are the same size as the Juniors. I hope you like this section (you better — it took about a billion hours!) and maybe when you’re older you’ll look at this yearbook and remember the way things were, the feelings you felt, and the people you knew. Good luck in the coming years, and remember: ‘92 RULES!

ry to imagine what Mentor High School would be like if there were no sports teams. Think about it... no Cardinal, no pep rallies, no Friday night football, and forget Homecoming. Wouldn't it be really boring to not have teams to cheer for? Sports give every student the opportunity to show his or her school spirit, to take responsibility, and to release built up energy after a long day of note taking, math problems and tests. What's the best reason to get involved in athletics? They're fun! Who doesn't like the screaming contests at the pep rallies? And just getting out of class isn't bad either. This year Mentor High has seen many great sports moments, a few of which we have tried to capture in the following pages. Our athletes deserve congratulations for an exciting year of great catches, dazzling footwork, elegant dives, record timing, and fantastic finishes.

Julie Shaw cools off.
The 1989 varsity volleyball team worked their way through a very impressive season, triumphantly finishing at the exciting State Competition as one of the final four teams. Although they lost to Reynoldsburg, the girls fought hard and were the pride of Mentor High. The team, coached by Richard Woodman and Mary Lynn Tonti, suppressed their opponents and won District and Regional Championships. First in the Greater Cleveland Conference with a record of 14-0, they tied for the most victories in MHS history with a season record of 24-4. Many congratulations and thanks to the team and their coaches for giving us something great to cheer about!

This accomplishment came only after a hard-fought match against Euclid in which the team came back to win after trailing 10-15, 5-11, and 7-13 in the three matches. The 1990 MHS hockey team set out this season to build a stronger team unit and improve defensive skills. Having been a school sponsored team for only three years, this young team was named by the Plain Dealer as the Most Improved Team of 1989 in the Blue Division. With more action to follow, the hockey players compiled an overall record of 3-12 by the beginning of February, with half their losses by just one or two goals. Last year the team’s record of 12-9-1 put them in fifth place in the Blue East Division. Congratulations to Mike Tinik and Don Gartner, News Herald Players of the Week.

The girls' team had equal success with their overall record of eleven wins and a mere one loss. Among the many shining moments the team saw was a new record in the 100 meter freestyle for Heather Cherry's team. Also, Elaine Merhar's fourth place finish at the Viking Invitational was a highlight. Congratulations to Mark Bumpus for his District competitive 100 meter breaststroke.

The junior varsity girls' basketball team, under the coaching of Carol Bjerstedt, shined all season and came away with an overall record of 15 wins and only 5 losses. The sophomore girls also became GCC Co-Champions with an impressive record of 10-3. Good luck to the girls as they progress to the varsity level.

Junior varsity teammates Vicky Adrian and Denise Bucey blocked a vicious Bearcat.
By February the boys’ varsity basketball team was well on its way to completing another exciting season with an overall record of five wins and five losses. In the Greater Cleveland Conference, the team had won three games and lost four. The Cards turned in some impressive team wins against John Adams, North, Geneva, South, and Brush. The team thanks the cheerleaders and their advisor Mrs. Lunder for all their support and hard work.

Whew! What a sports year we’ve had. Finally we can take a TIME OUT to look back and remember our shining moments. Mentor has definitely proven itself a force in the Greater Cleveland Conference with many teams winning the championship including both the track teams and the boys’ varsity soccer team. Also, the boys’ cross country team extended its GCC record to eleven straight championships. MHS burst with excitement as the girls’ volleyball team travelled to the state championship.

Our sports have not only been enjoyed by athletes. People of all ages poured into the stadium each Friday night last fall to experience the thrill of Cardinal football. Many students participated in the Homecoming parade and attended the annual dance. Spirit Week and the pep rallies were great opportunities to display our school spirit. We look forward to next year’s activities and wish good luck to all the sports teams of the ’90’s.

The call came in to the Mentor High School yearbook staff at 7:42 pm on a cool Friday night last fall. It was a lady's voice, excited and out of breath. She babbled something about the football game at Mentor Stadium and a huge red thing. I couldn't make any sense of it, but before I could question her anymore, she hung up the phone.

The conversation disturbed me, so I sent my star sports reporter, Ima Cardsfan, to the scene to cover the story. The following is an excerpt from her exclusive article.

"The stadium roared with excitement as the Mentor Cardinal mascot made his appearance. The sight of the scarlet-feathered fellow brought the crowd to their feet as they revelled in the delightful antics of their hero..."

Months later the sports staff caught up with the boisterous bird and got the inside scoop on his secret identity or, to be precise, identities.

Seniors Kevin Zaletel and Leslie Gogan shared the honor of being the 1989-90 Mentor Cardinal mascot.

"I wanted to be a part of football and part of the crowd," explained Kevin when asked what made him tryout. Leslie saw it as an opportunity to experience what it might be like to dress up as Mickey Mouse and work at Disneyland, a dream she's had since age six.

Both Kevin and Leslie really enjoyed themselves. Meeting people from other schools, working with the cheerleaders, and having a great view of the football and volleyball games were the things Kevin liked most about being the cardinal.

When Leslie was asked the same question, she replied,

"The secret, definitely. Everyone walks up to you asking all kinds of questions and you just shrug." Keeping their role a mystery was not easy, especially when friends approached them or wondered why they weren't at the games.

However, all the thrill was not without its embarrassing moments, particularly for Kevin.

"I had to change in the restrooms for the away games. Guys would walk in and see me there in yellow tights. Not a pretty sight."

So, what is it really like inside that "huge red thing"? According to Leslie and Kevin, the key word is HOT.

Both students would like to be college mascots and told how this experience changed them.

"Well, I've lost some weight in there! Basically, I've become much more coordinated," Leslie admitted. Kevin found a new respect for the hard work that is put out by the players and cheerleaders during the season.

Any advice for aspiring mascots?

"You can't be shy! Be willing to make a fool out of yourself," Leslie suggests.

"There is no rule saying that only girls can be high school cheerleaders. There is a lot of work...guys can help," says Kevin.

A big "THANK YOU" to Kevin Zaletel, Leslie Gogan, and photographer Michael Marcel for their help with these pages.

Activities are an exciting part of high school life. Students are given a variety of clubs to choose from. You can do anything from taking a trip to Russia to putting on a senior citizens' dance. Activities allow for you to meet new people, see interesting places, and enjoy many new experiences. Opportunities are constantly arising for more participation in the high school. By joining activities, you form friendships that last a lifetime.

ADMINISTRATION

Parting words to the Class of 1990

One of the most rewarding aspects of any school year is to sit back and watch as the senior class takes its rightful place in society. We asked the members of the Mentor Board of Education as well as the administrators at the high school to submit any advice or parting words they might have that they would like to pass down to the graduating seniors to help make this transition easier. Here are a few of the responses we received:

"Good luck to the class of 1990. I would hope that your life will be enjoyable and your dreams fulfilled. Remember: 'You only go down the road once; so make the best of it.'"

Dr. Webb

"May you find before you a world of talent, fulfillment and happiness. May your future be bright with the joys of success."

Mrs. Charlene Gawronski

"As my father said to me 'The secret to success in life is simple — if you get knocked down, get back up.'"

Mr. Walt Conte

"You are the graduates of a new decade, a decade of hope. The heavy responsibilities for a healthy, happy and successful nation will rest in your hands. Be true and faithful to yourself, your family and friends, your community and your country. Reach for the stars - have a vision and goals and work hard to attain them. We are counting on you to continue in the M.H.S. tradition of being MENTOR PROUD!"

Mrs. Valerie Federico

"I'd like the senior class to remember these words from Somerset Maugham. 'It is a funny thing about life; if you refuse to accept anything but the best, you very often get it.'"

Dr. Hans Pesch

"The time has come for you to move on to bigger and better events in your life. There is only one M.H.S. class of '90, and you have made a positive contribution to our school's history. May you reach your goals and have a most successful future. I'll always remember you as the first class to win me a pie in the face. Good luck to all."

RE: To A Healthy Future

It is tough to enjoy companionship, learning, or work when you don’t feel well. Developing good health habits that will serve you for a lifetime is therefore essential. Today there is more information in books and on videos for diet and weight control than ever before. There is also more equipment for fitness and wellness on the market than past generations had at their disposal. Your leisure-time activities can be positive experiences today that will reward you socially, emotionally, and physically if you plan them correctly. Remember, a healthy life is a productive life so — start today — it’s well worth the investment.

"The best educational advice I ever received was during my training in the Army. A sergeant, who was an instructor on the assembly of the M-60 machine gun, gave us his teaching philosophy one day. 'First you tell 'em. Then you tell 'em what you told 'em. Then you tell 'em again!' I've followed his advice faithfully ever since, and I'm proud to report that every student who has taken my class is proficient in the assembly of the M-60 machine gun.'

-Mr. Barnes

"Dedicated to every parent and coach who ever told their kid, 'But I told you what to do!' Just because you say it, doesn't mean they'll hear it. Just because they hear it, doesn't mean they'll understand it. Just because they understand it, doesn't mean they'll do it, and just because they do it, doesn't mean they'll do it right.'

-Mr. Mackar

"My sufficiency has been surrensified!"

-Mr. Korcheck

"I've enjoyed the unique honor and overwhelming responsibility of grooming all the hair for both Mr. Kary and me since I came to MHS in 1977."

-Mrs. Luttermoser

"TINSTAAFL"

-Mr. Mackey

"What could be more fun than this emotional roller derby called high school?"

-Mr. Kowalke

"Read the words. Read ALL the words. Read ONLY the words that are THERE."

-Mr. Young

"One of the joys of teaching is that we as teachers necessarily keep learning and growing. My students are excellent teachers."

-Mrs. Geisler

"I truly enjoy working with my students. My only wish is that they would believe in themselves and their abilities as much as I do."

-Miss Rolla

"I think being a small part of the shaping of tomorrow's leaders is one of life's most rewarding and exciting vocations."

-Mr. Conte

"A successful day for me is when the students realize that something that happened before they were born or in a place they have never seen may have been important enough to affect them now and in the future."

-Mr. Voyten

"Hard work and high standards. Those students at MHS who reflect this are the ones who have made and will continue to make MHS such a great school and make teaching rewarding."

-Mr. Lillback

"I enjoy interacting with students on a daily basis and maybe having a small part in helping them find out about themselves."

-Mr. Lorek

"Participation in a democratic society is essential. REMEMBER TO VOTE!"

-Mr. Reid

"It is so rewarding to hear of the success of MHS graduates in the business world, especially those that return for a visit and tell me they value what they have learned."

-Mrs. Christenson

-Mrs. MacGregor

"The purpose of World History and World Affairs: a never-ending quest for Cultural Literacy!"

-Mrs. Roberts

"I love to share the art experience with my students because it helps them see and appreciate the beauty in the world."

et you haven’t seen a Student Life section before, have you? That’s because we’ve never had one! Student Life is a new section this year; a section in which every picture tells a story. Sure, you’ve got a lot going on in your life, but there are 2400 students running around this school and this section will give you a more organized view of the hundreds of different things going on in Cardinal Country. You may see yourself, your friends, and people you’ve never seen in your life, all in Student Life. You’ll see people laughing, working their hearts out, or taking a snooze, and you’ll remember. The section is divided into different topics to give an interesting cross-section of Student Life. There are all kinds of great pictures and fun articles; you’ll learn a lot (without studying!). (Did you know that most kids in this school brush with... Well, you’ll have to look for yourself). Student Life puts Mentor High into perspective. Just sit back, relax, and enjoy.

There was a nip in the air, and the stars were ours. Silver, white, and black limousines aligned the horizon as Lolly the Trolley clang-clang-clanged along. Thanks to the junior class and the Future Leaders, last year's prom was a complete success. The students chose the theme "Time of My Life," a song from the movie "Dirty Dancing."

The whole evening was filled with excitement, watching the rainbow array of dresses and tuxedoes. The original band broke up two weeks before the dance and went to the Bahamas. Unfortunately, the general feeling was that the replacement band should have gone with them. Regardless, the last prom in the Mentor Civic Center was a great success.

Nice job to Jay Marenko, Ben Kingery, Tim Colbert, and Joe Knize, our four dapper doormen from the 88-89 prom. Scott Moorman and Beth Walsh...this is the time of your lives.
Tammy Ruland and Dave Fellenstein enjoy the prom refreshments provided by the Senior Citizens Center of Mentor.

What is one of the best times for a student in high school? Homecoming Weekend! This year’s festivities started on a frigid Thursday night at the traditional Powder Puff game. The juniors surprised the seniors by defeating them 7-0. The Homecoming parade started the weekend and was followed by the Mentor vs. Euclid homecoming game. Our Cards played a great game against archrivals Euclid Panthers, but unfortunately we lost. Saturday at noon several students returned to the school to set up for the big Homecoming dance. The silver aisle lined with silver balloons along with the “Homecoming” balloon arch made our rather plain cafeteria look exciting and festive. There could not have been a more perfect night for the dance, warm with a slight breeze. A great night for dancing! Afterwards, at midnight, the gala decorations were taken down by the extremely dedicated clean up crew. What a weekend!
On Saturday, February 10, the senior class once again put together a wonderful Winter Formal. The lucky members of the Winter Formal court were Brian Barry, J.R. Plescia, Jeff Cost, Chris Rivers, Stephen Haak, and Reid Yanchar. The dance was a pleasant end to a high spirited week. Students were involved in everything from clash day to red and grey day. All in all the students displayed their school spirit throughout the week and the dance was a real success!

Entrance into the world of "Some Kind Of Wonderful."
On November 3, 1989, Mentor High School held its annual Senior Citizens’ Dinner and Dance. This was the seventh dance since its beginning back in 1983, and through the past seven years, the dance has grown at an astounding rate.

Sponsored by the Key Club, Junior Class officers, and Future Leaders of America, the dance gives students an opportunity to have a wonderful evening of fine food, good dance music, and a chance to get to know many of the senior citizens.

The guests began to arrive at 5:00 p.m., but for many students involved, the dance started much earlier. Around 2:00 p.m., approximately 20-25 students along with advisor Mr. Greg Allen were working on transferring the high school student center into a room that would seat approximately 250 people plus room enough for a 4-piece band and plenty of space for dancing.

The kitchen was also a place of great activity. There were rolls that were to be placed in baskets, food to be made, tables to be set up for desserts, and many other tasks that were important to the upcoming evening affairs.

After the set-up was complete, everyone went home to change and by 5:30 p.m., when everyone had arrived, there were approximately 250 senior citizens and 100 students.

The meal was extremely enjoyable because it gave everyone a chance to get to know the senior citizens. It worked out well because there was at least one student per table with the senior citizens.

As soon as the meal was over, the dancing began. The band did an excellent job playing everything from 40’s Big Band all the way to some 50’s and 60’s Rock-n-Roll. Everyone on the dance floor seemed to be enjoying themselves and by 8:00, when the dance was over, no one seemed to want to leave.

Now it's time to stop and take a look around. Normally when you look at a picture it's from a direct view. This page, however, breaks from tradition and takes "A Different View." Not only have we taken pictures of people looking up, but looking down also. Sometimes we take the things around us for granted, but maybe with a little help from our page you'll be able to see the world from a different view.

What's Up?

How would you like to wake UP to these smiling faces every morning?
“Here’s looking UP at you kid.”
Noelle Ott and friends are having fun on the balcony.

Matthew Francis wants to know,
“What’s UP DOWN there?”

Mr. Woodman and the volleyball team are getting ready to spike’em DOWN their throats.

Another day filled with UPs and DOWNs at Mentor High School.

What’s Down?
As the year comes to a close, many of you will start thinking about your life after Mentor High School. While seniors are looking at the very near future, underclassmen still have a couple years to go. But whatever stage you’re at you’re going to have to make some tough decisions. The reassuring thing is you will get to change your mind and try many ideas. Whatever path you take, from college to a job, try to remember the things you learned at Mentor High School. The things you learned will be a great help in the future.

Good Luck!
At the beginning of the year the Student Life section wanted more student participation, so we came up with a poll. Many of you received this poll in your English class. Most students took it seriously and gave us some very good responses. Below is the standings of your favorite radio stations, cartoons, cars, and toothpaste.

The lights dimmed and the stage was set for what was soon to be a Rotary Award winning show. The crowd packed A-lecture and got more than their money's worth with last year's musical production of "On The Twentieth Century."

A definite thumbs up to Mr. Lorek and the cast and crew that put all of this together. Special recognition should go to Ms. Marlene Bialik, the choreographer, and to Mrs. Lois Davis, the music director. Without their help, the play would never have been the success that it was. Congratulations on a fine job!

Poetry, when interpreted correctly can captivate the mind of the reader, almost as well as a fine drama production can carry the audience into the enchanting world of the theatre.

Mr. Joseph Lorek

once again molds the inspiring talents of the Mentor High School Drama Department into a fantastic display of emotion. Splendor in the Grass touches upon a very serious issue in today’s society: the troubles encountered when two people fall in love. They are never easy to overcome and they often appear to be insurmountable but as Deanie Loomis (Beth Conte) and Bud Stamper (Chris Couch) found out, we can never be really sure what our future holds in store for us.

Ace Stamper (Scott Moorman) greets Del Loomis (Mike Ireland) after church.

The 80's, a decade of peace, prosperity, and change. Can you believe that it was only 10 years ago since the age of disco, and it was over 10 years ago since Star Wars blazed across movie screens all over the galaxy? Yes, in the past 10 years everyone caught the Pac-Man fever, the Iran-Iraq War began, and fruitflies became a problem for California's $14 billion fruit and vegetable crop. Through the last years the world has seen such phenomena as David Letterman, airline terrorism, artificial organs, the '84 and '88 Olympics, pit bulls, and the beginning and the end of the reign of Reagan. With the 90's already here, let's take a look back at the 80's.

We called them leaders!?

Reagan serves eight years of the 80's as president President Reagan shot by John W. Hinkley Jr. Pope John Paul II shot by Mehemet Ali Agca Sandra Day O'Connor is first woman named to the Supreme Court Geraldine Ferraro first woman nominated for vice president by a major political party running with Walter "Fritz" Mondale President Ferdinand Marcos of the Phillipines flees for Hawaiian exile Corazon Aquino takes over presidency PTL club leader Jim Bakker lost office position after reports of sexual affair with church secretary Jessica Hahn Gorbachev first takes power in USSR in 1985 Reagan meets Gorbachev for the first time General Manuel Noriega first takes control of Panama in 1983 Donald Trump Lee Iaccoca Jessie Jackson Gary Hart and Donna Rice became too close aboard the yacht "Monkey Business" Clint Eastwood was elected mayor of Carmel, California Oliver North becomes scapegoat of the Iran-Contra scandal of arms for hostages Dan Quayle!!

While this was happening around the world, in Mentor.....
Mentor in the 80's

In the world there were a lot of events that shaped the 80's but there were also some in Mentor. They were... Top 25 turns 25 Board votes Pledge of Allegiance every morning Mr. Quigney dresses up as a nun Mentor High gains two coke machines for students Mr. Fulmer turns 50 Volleyball team goes to state Mentor feels vibrations from an earthquake Mentor Mall roof collapses Memorial moves to Kennedy Ice Rink Football stadium built Mentor High builds new weight room.

Dr. Webb, one of the newest Mentor cardinals, came in 1988 from Wadsworth, Ohio. He brought the whole school together with more assemblies and brought back the bond of school spirit.

Rob Hooper and Mike Keyerleber show their interpretation of the Salem Witch Trials in one of Mrs. Harper's last AP History classes of the 80's. Mrs. Harper left in '89 to have her son, Kevin.
Mentor residents show their pride by entertaining spectators during the Better in Mentor Days' Parade. Better in Mentor Days also began in the 80's.

Greg Orloff and Scott Moorman showing us how fun AP Physics can be. In the 1980's Mentor High School students were fortunate to gain the option of not only taking honors classes, but also AP classes.

It has been a long, grueling day. The bus splattered spots of black slush on your new white pants. Your English teacher announced that the term paper you thought was due in three weeks is actually due tomorrow. You spend four minutes running to gym class, and as you are half undressed, it dawns on you that your entire class is in A-Lecture watching a filmstrip. The chapter 9 chemistry test is returned, and you ask to take the absolute value of your incorrect answers rather than your actual score. The request is denied. At last, the 2:26 bell signals what you hope to be the end of a terrible day. After stuffing every book you own into a small backpack, you rush to the student center. The line is long, but you figure it’s probably worth the wait. The two quarters klink through the machine and you make your selection. "Finally," you think. Well aware of the hard basketball practice and long night of homework ahead, you push the tab back and take a long drink. What was Mentor High School without a Coke machine?

Cheers!
Chris Pattice, Terry Erker, and Mike Fellows enjoy the benefits of the two new Coke machines in the Student Center.

Dear Aphrodite, Brian, Bruce, Carrie, Chris (my partner), Courtney, Dyan, Greg, Holly, Jen D., John, Ken, Marcy, Matthew, Monte, Sean, Tina, Traci, Travis, and Vicky,

What can I say except this has been one of the best years of my entire life — most of which is all due to the wonderful friendship we've shared this year. I can never thank you all enough for what you've been to me. I love you all very much. Remember the shows, Channel 3, camp, Camp Whitewood rides, 12 Days of Christmas, the parties, Mar-tay and Homecoming — sorry guys, but we knew the whole time! Rocky Horror, Finast frozen yogurt, snowball fights, love triangles, bowling, Shoregate on Mon. & Tues! The fights, coupon books! "Hello, okay, I will!", bombs, Santagrams, cherry blowers, pretzel rods, "peaches" — from Georgia too, Ted, Jane, Big Spender licks, refrigerator people, "B" & "D" - nights in the camper, Tour, the Cleveland Indians, "Do you wanna laugh?" ... and most of all, coke ices.

Best of luck to you all. Seniors: We did it, we're free from school, and Juniors and Sophs: For next year, make me proud.

I love you all! Love, Tina P

Volume 65 Appears

The fact that this book is published and distributed is a thought that was beyond comprehension last November. I would call it magic that put this book on your shelf. Last June we had chosen the theme etc Everything Counts and designed the cover. By the time the school year began we were prepared for anything. So what caused the problem? Marcus Covelli, son of yearbook advisor Mrs. Covelli, born September 22, 1989. He certainly wasn’t unexpected; we just weren’t quite ready for him. The staff then had no choice but to adjust to Mrs. Covelli’s absence. Mrs. Sigworth and Miss Rolla reluctantly but graciously stepped up from assistant advisors to full-time advisors before they even had the time to learn their duties. Meanwhile, the section editors were trying to train the new members to prepare pages for the first deadline and I was desperately trying to organize a yearbook pre-sale. Looking back now, it’s a wonder the whole staff wasn’t sent to the funny farm.

Despite the confusion of ladder diagrams, Quad Pak instructions, and deadlines, we succeeded in accomplishing our goal to develop a book unlike any other in MHS history. By incorporating bright spot color and graphics, we gave the book an appearance it has never seen before: trendy.

Of course, the book would not be what it is without the help of many people, especially the dedicated staff members to whom this page is devoted. Many thanks to Cindy Carty, our Taylor Publishing Company representative, for answering questions and keeping us from going insane and a special thank you to Mr. Greg Allen for donating dozens of pictures.

Thank you also to Mrs. Sigworth and Miss Rolla for never giving up even when ALL the chips were down. I appreciate your organization, understanding, and dedication more than you know.

Very few can understand the monstrous amounts of hard work that went into this book. Those who do, however, may agree that it really was magical that we finally finished. Hopefully you will find the final product just as magical. For the yearbook staff: Don’t you just wish that it were as easy as “ABRACADABRA?”

-Vicky Wolfe, Editor

The yearbook staff certainly kept our secretaries Jenny Green and Lynette Becker on their toes with constant requests for film, croppers, or pencils.

When the going gets tough or the deadlines settle in, Sports Editor Laura Sperry and Amy Artim get down to the basics of yearbook design: using a cropper.

Occasionally yearbook meetings are spiced up with some sort of entertainment usually in the form of music. We did, however, have a visit from JR Pescia, who gave a new meaning to the phrase “crisp clean shave” by sacrificing his chest hair (at least most of it) for the GCC swim meet.

Student Life editors Tracy Ferguson and Greg Orloff finish off their last page for the final deadline. Is there a better excuse to smile for the camera?

Senior section editor Colleen Frunty and Marcy Burnett look tired after countless hours surrounded by the typewriter, Quad Paks, and croppers.
The Clubs and Organizations staff, Michelle Skouby, Heidi Beall, and Mandy Cole, after having spent hours drawing pages and playing Pictionary on the board are happy to finally be finished.

Sophomore Section Editor Chris Chen is at a loss for words. He is overwhelmed by the sudden release of stress in turning in the final pages.

Editor Vicky Wolfe checks the final pages with a smile on her face. She may think that she actually gets to go home now, but she hasn’t seen the proofs yet!!
Mr. Tom Hollis:
A True Number One Teacher

The school year began with an unexpected damper when English teacher Mr. Tom Hollis passed away on September 4, 1989. Anyone who ever came in contact with him will certainly never forget his energetic personality. As an English teacher he will always be remembered for his dedication to his students and his willingness to learn as well as teach. For most, however, Mr. Hollis was more than a teacher. He was a friend. There was no problem too small to talk about with Mr. Hollis, and he was always available. It seemed that his bright smile and bouncy nature could soothe anything.

While Mr. Hollis touched the lives of many, the students who will remember Mr. Hollis most are probably those seniors who were in his last sophomore Honors English classes in 1987-1988. When asked what they will remember most about Mr. Hollis, a majority of the students answered, “His green sweater.” Other fond memories include his Hi-C drink boxes and the way he said “Eh?” and “My little chickadees.” With his innovative ideas and creative expression, Mr. Hollis also made it difficult to forget literary terms like alliteration and assonance.

Mr. Hollis changed many lives and has left behind an example of dedication, love, and honesty. In the eyes of Mentor High School students he truly is “Number One”. The Sophomore class throws a party in B-wing! This party was a part of the Spirit Week hall decoration contest during the week of February 5th. The 1990 Yearbook Staff dedicates this edition of Cardinal Notes in the memory of a deserving man, Mr. Tom Hollis.
Jason Chilcoat, a junior on the 1990 Academic Decathlon team, attempts to roast a piece of pizza over a bonfire held at co-advisor Mr. Allen's house earlier this year.

Seniors Wendy Zgrebnak, Wendy Rositano, Jen Palla, and Kim Craig share a bit of "togetherness" at a Friday night football game.

Heather Gliha masters a new feat: to smile and do pull-ups simultaneously. Actually, she is taking a break from running at the track. (But still, she is smiling!)
