THINGS ARE CHANGING

Summer is now over and it's time to return to Mentor High School, but things are a whole lot different than they were. As we drive into the parking lot we see construction of the auditorium which didn't exist last year. The halls and rooms have grown in size and the science labs have been remodeled. Exciting faces have gone and many more have come. We are now a year older and oh so much wiser. There are a lot of changes awaiting this year and many new things are going to take place. Are you ready to join the crowd and experience Mentor High School as we know it?

Dr. Webb shows his school spirit by posing with the Cardinal.

Left: Seniors and Juniors take time to show they have a heart.

Practicing diligently, the MHS Drum Line prepares for the Homecoming halftime show.
IF THESE WALLS COULD TALK . . .

If these walls could talk they would tell stories that would last a lifetime. This year they are saying something we all should listen to. Their topic of discussion is change; construction of the new auditorium, new science labs, the end of the G.C.C., budget cuts, and "Rocking the Vote." The 1992-1993 school year was a year of many changes that has affected everyone who attends Mentor High.

These differences bring extra excitement and extra stress. A pool of new and different opportunities is waiting for us. We must listen to the valuable things that the walls are saying, in order to jump in safely and not get lost in a wave.
Mr. Hieronymus, in his own way, tries to help with the construction of the new auditorium.

Middle: Chilkoot's new sandbox is created from the former Fighting Cardinal Marching Band practice field.

Pete Holland and Beth Weber read up on the latest politics in the 1992 Presidential Election.
There was an expectation of warmth, but it rained all day and the parade was canceled. Nevertheless the game proceeded and thousands were there to support the Fighting Cardinals. There was an expectation of talent from our football team.

Sparks of red and gray on a field of green. Dominating the game The Cards easily beat the Brush Arcs. There was an expectation of smiles, goodtimes, and cheer.

Homecoming game had been a success. Homecoming week was not over yet.

Though the seniors won the spirit contest. There was more to come. The powderpuff game and the bonfire were postponed to a further date unknown by all. The parade was rescheduled for the next week.

Below: Homecoming Pep Rally marks the end of the 1992 GCC football season.

These sophomores learn what Cardinal spirit is all about while they decorate the halls for Spirit Week.
WHO? Will reign as the 1992 Mentor High School Homecoming Queen?

Carl Taskas escorts Alison Perez to her throne.

Juniors decorate the walls for pep week.

Brian Koss and Roman Seninov bridge the cultural gaps with the ties that bind.
It has finally come, our last year together. We have had some good times and some not so good times. Chad Green’s most memorable moment is, “winning the G.C.C. in football,” and Tim Martin’s most memorable moment is, “winning the division in hockey.”

The school is seeing changes. This is our last year in the G.C.C., we have to “play to play” because of a levy failure, and construction on the new auditorium began.

Let’s hope we never forget these years we have spent together. Remember the bomb threat our Sophomore year?

Jeff Slavkovsky and his little friend pose for a picture during playtime.

Mr. Allen’s government class supports the figurative walls of Mentor High School by benefiting from its great education.
We'll be free in '93

Michelle Childers, Jeni Ludwig and Selma Lewis are proud parents of bouncing baby pumpkins.

Dave England discusses the nutritional content of our school lunches with the lunch lady.
SENIORS

All of us have many memories of our years at Mentor High School. Some are more embarrassing than others.
Laura Simpson once slipped and fell in mud during marching band practice.
Scott Smith remembers getting stuck in the elevator.
Lisa Yee tripped and belly slid across C-lobby in her sophomore year.
Marcy Whitcomb came to school wearing two different shoes.
Sarah Straley fell asleep once in class and drooled.
Kim Liles remembers getting depants in front of Mr. Litzinger at the weight room.
Matt Rositani says everyday is an embarrassing moment, while Kim Mason says she never gets embarrassed.

Kearsten Suminski takes a minute to wave to the crowd during the Homecoming parade.

Matt Suzce and Sid Sen try and stare each other down (or something).
Brandon Borgia is part of the "New Generation"
Steve Szalma, don’t you know that it is bad luck to open an umbrella indoors!

Adam Shea studies his government before the chapter test.

Stacy Kyeleber and Melanie Carter are happy that it is their Senior year.

A group gathers to wish Mrs. Kramer good-bye.

We’ve Busted
Through These Walls

For three years we have roamed these halls. For three years we have made new friends, grown academically, and experienced many emotions.
The walls have spoken. It is time to go our separate ways. We now must expand our horizons, and prepare ourselves for new adventures.
Let us not forget the memories embedded in these walls. Hold them dear to your heart.
Take your heart, your mind, and your courage and build the walls of your future.

Juniors
Between The Walls

We are literally and metaphorically stuck between the walls. As sophomores we were concerned mainly with surviving our first, terrifying year at Mentor High School. Next year, as seniors, we will experience the comfort of knowing it is our last year at Mentor High School. This year we are stuck between the two walls in our most challenging year yet. Even though we are between the walls we have managed to make our permanent mark at Mentor High.

Building These Walls

Once again, as the school year began, a new group of sophomores started along their path of maturity at Mentor High School. As each school day went by, each of us encountered new experiences and learned to deal with new problems which we found together. We continued to express our ideas and furthered our development into responsible individuals. This year was just the first building block to a continuous and ongoing process of higher education that will peak at our graduation in June of 1995. It was also the beginning of an exciting and challenging journey that will prepare us for the years to come.

Sophomore band members share with us the joy of "playing in the rain".

Excitement shows on these sophomores' faces during Pep Week.
Spirited Sophomores take time after school to decorate the halls during Homecoming Week.

Homecoming is a fun event experienced by sophomores their first year, can you see the fun we're having?

We came to Mentor High with junior high school attitudes and expectations. Throughout our first year some of us have changed and some still remain the same. For those of us that have advanced in our maturity level we have experienced a lot. Our voices have gotten deeper, and we have sprouted like trees. In the end we will have achieved Junior status. We have fully experienced high school life from football games to chess and strategy club meetings. We have broadened our horizons and have taken on more responsibilities. The foundation has been poured for the future to build on.

Above: Heather Waters, Janet Partie, Beth Saari, Megan Sidewan, and Collete Grigan all compete for the camera's attention.

"Here I am!!!"

"Do I have to take a number?"
Stop! Before you leaf though these next few pages, think about the times you needed help on that test you bombed, or you just needed one more point to get that “A”. Remember the times that you were sitting in class half asleep waiting for the bell to ring. You slowly lift your weary head and something catches your eye. Once again the teacher turns to write on the board. Then, there it is bigger than sin, larger than life, and more vast than the Grand Canyon. Everyone notices the chalkmark smeared on the teacher’s rear. You begin to snicker and the class laughs hysterically. Normally the class would be scolded but here at MHS the teachers laugh along with their students. As you look through this section, look at these people, not only as teachers but as individuals. Then you’ll see the flip side.

Above right: Mrs. Kohn interests her students in a flipbook she made with her English text.

Right: So this is what Mr. Kary and Mr. Polinsky do on In-Service days.
Mrs. Pugh takes a ride in her hotrod.

Hats off to the gentlemen with a lady on each arm.

The Board

Mr. Lesak has been the superintendent of Mentor Exempted Village Schools since the class of 1993 was in kindergarten. He has helped to make the Mentor School system we have today. We are proud of the improvements and accomplishments our school has achieved. The senior class would like to thank Mr. Lesak for a great twelve years, and a warm welcome for Mr. Hiller. Best wishes to you, Mr. Lesak, And thanks again for the fond memories.

Defending These Walls

The Mentor Cardinals prevailed over the Greater Cleveland Conference. The coaches and players rigorously worked many long hours after school to enhance their talents, creating an unstoppable bulldozer that toppled their opponents. The thunderous roar that arose from the fans electrified the player’s desire to win.

As we proudly exit the GCC this year it is necessary to thank coaches, players, cheerleaders, and fans for many great seasons and to say GCC-YA!

Carpe Diem. In Dead Poet's Society Mr. Keating tries to convince his students that the ivy covered walls are speaking these words. Carpe Diem Seize the day. Some Mentor High students have heard these same whispers escaping our cement block walls. They are capturing our minds through The Crucible, cheering us with their school spirit at pep rallies and sports events, and touching senior citizen’s hearts through gifts of flower bouquets on Valentine’s Day. Instead of plodding along each day accomplishing little, these students have heeded the wall’s message and have seized the day.

Life Within These Walls

Life at Mentor High is not just classrooms, sports, activities and offices. It is a place to form lasting friendships and eternal memories. We have put together this section to commemorate some of our best memories and we hope some of yours too. These are the highlights of our lives and we live in the present as well as the future. We hope you enjoy these memories as much as we have.

Mentor High Bloodmobile—A Great Success!

Friday, November 6, 1992 was the day. Mentor High was the school. Saving lives was our main cause. Thanks to a record number of student donors: Mission accomplished.

It's no coincidence that the senior class of 1993 is nicknamed "The Class with Heart." These students and their four class officers, combined with the American Red Cross, had enough heart to donate close to 400 pints of blood. That is not only a record turnout from Mentor High, but also without coincidence that the donors were in such abundance. Class officers were out on the prowl for weeks in advance, recruiting new and V.I.P. donors alike.

So thanks once again for your generosity and keep those veins pumping. By being healthy, you can save up to four lives with a donation of one pint of blood. We hope for continued success in future blood drive efforts. We know that the classes to come will also find it in their hearts to contribute to such a great cause.

Spring Musical 1992

When most people think of Grease they think of slick, cool Greasers and hot Pink Ladies, and if you had the chance to see the spring musical that’s exactly what you got, along with a lot of quick humor and tons of laughs!

Mentor High performed Grease 10 years before, but without all the modern technical advances and stage expansion we have today, which provided for 1992’s rendition to be much more advanced.

The hours put into a major production such as this, called for complete dedication and energy from everyone involved! On a typical rehearsal day walking into A-Lecture you see text books spread upon tables, coats and bags flung quickly on the backs of chairs and people scurrying to their part of the production, whether it was on stage receiving direction from Mr. Lorek, working on sets, lights, or organizing props or sewing costumes everyone was kept busy! Practice began at 2:45 and ran approximately until 6:30, but two days a week actors and chorus stayed until 9:00 to practice the dance numbers. This makes for a pretty tedious day!

In the end, the show was an electrifying hit! All four shows had a full house and another night was added upon request which also sold out immediately!

Everyone involved walked away with smiles! The annual Rotary Awards held in May presented numerous individuals with special recognition for their performances, but the whole cast and crew deserved a standing ovation.

Unforgettable!

For many Mentor High students, the prom hype traditionally starts in early May, or at least not until after spring break. Last year, though, the hustle and bustle of things commenced a little earlier for everyone. The dance was held at La Malfa Party Center on May 1st, and although the early date was a disappointment, the dance was a huge success.

For five people in particular, planning prom activities started extremely early, somewhere around the first week of school. Many things had to happen before the dance could take place. Mr. Greg Allen and the four Junior Class officers worked diligently all year to ensure a smooth, fun-filled evening for all who attended. Many an organizational meeting took place, many an order form filled out, many a decision was made (and rethought and remade). Things like centerpieces, balloons, napkin color, choice of hors d'oeuvres and which photographer was going to take on this mammoth task had to be discussed and decided. Ticket price was a consideration, while DJ's and stacks of informative posters were another expense. With careful planning, though, all these loose ends were tied together in the most beautiful ribbon of a dance.

Things went beautifully. A fun time was had by all and all decisions had been made for the best. We will continue to do business with La Malfa for as long as they stand. (Not solely because we reserve the center until the year 2000, either!) But also because they are a fine establishment and the most versatile and easy to work with.

But the couples, the key to our success, turned out in great crowds of majestic beauty. Girls in short, girls in long, elegant, cute, astonishing and every girl the queen of her own prom. Guys in black and white, with hints of eye-catching color and flowers to not overlook. Every one a gentleman. It was a sight not to miss and memory not to soon fade away.

Recycle America!!

The Ecology Club at Mentor High School is an active environmental organization, taking part in many activities that promote awareness and environmental responsibility both within and outside the school environment. Some of the important activities that the club has been involved in include paper and aluminum can recycling, phone book recycling, Letter Clean-up and awareness, and Earth Day and Earth Week activities within the school and at the Cleveland Zoo. In the spring of 1993 they are planning to get involved in tree-planting in the community. Through these activities, the club hopes to be making a positive contribution to our community.

The Ecology Club has been involved with paper and aluminum can recycling for the past two years at Mentor High School. They initiated the recycling program for several reasons. First of all, they realized that Lake County, along with the rest of the nation, is facing a serious landfill crisis. They also noticed how much garbage this school alone throws away every day. A large portion of that garbage consisted of paper and aluminum cans, and these two things could be recycled. Recycling has been a worthwhile project for the Ecology Club. Last year the Ecology Club recycled 7500 pounds of paper—enough to save 64 trees 35 feet tall from being cut down, not to mention the water and energy that is saved by recycling.

Homecoming, '92

It was a week full of laughter and excitement. All week we showed our enthusiasm with Mentor High School sweatershirts, our favorite caps and cheek cheers. We decorated the halls with spirit signs and hung red and grey streamers from the ceiling. Spirit chains were growing longer and the suspense was becoming intense as everyone wondered who would be Queen.

The rain caused many festivities to be cancelled; however, the weather could not dampen the excitement of assembly day. Emotions were running high as the students entered the gym. The cheerleaders began to dance and the majorettes twirled, as the choir sang and the band played. Soon the court members and their escorts were introduced and Alison Perz received the white rose.

Later that evening, the crowds returned to witness the Homecoming victory over Maple Heights. Mentor’s Fighting Cards once again proved they deserved the GCC crown.

This magical week concluded with the Homecoming dance, sponsored by Future Leaders of America. Music filled the air as the court danced to this year’s theme song, For Just One Moment. Girls, with hair piled high, made just standing around an event, while boys, dressed in suits, danced the night away.

This was Homecoming '92 and it was fantastic! Thanks for the memories!

The Crucible

Witch Trials Visit Mentor . . .

This year the Mentor High School Theater department chose Arthur Miller’s The Crucible for the fall production. The material presented in the play deals with the Salem Witchcraft trials and the hysteria created. The show commemorated the 300th anniversary of the trials. The cast included: Andrea Lefalvare (junior), Doug Jaszcz (senior), Heather Harbold (junior), Julie Karges (senior), Traci Harper (senior), Leah Bailey (junior), Jason Weaver (junior), Genna Brocone (senior), Danielle Prusinski (senior), Chris Bues (sophomore), Angela Edwards (junior), Matthew Kacir (senior), Tim Wołaszynek (junior), Lindsey Griffith (junior), Perry Hines (senior), Jason Broge (junior), Paul Rozewski (senior), Brian Patocca (junior), Mark Witten (senior), Shannon Rose (junior) and Sawan Babara (junior). The cast and crew spent part of each rehearsal learning the true history of the Salem Witchcraft trials so they could understand and feel what it must have been like in 1692. The atmosphere of each show was quiet and reserved, while each night of the four performances, the audience sat aghast as they viewed their history. The show made an impact on everyone involved. The show was even invited to perform at the Ohio Thespian Festival which is the first step towards an invitation to perform at the International Thespian Festival which is one of the highest honors a high school Thespian troupe can achieve.

Key Club

Mentor Key Club—Stronger Than Ever!

Many people ask, “What is Key Club?” Key Club is a service organization for high school students which operates under school regulations. Key Club is different from other clubs at Mentor High School. Key Club not only functions on the local level, but on the district and international levels as well. This structure provides programs, literature, and the opportunity for students to relate to teenagers from thirteen countries.

Key Club’s objective is the development of initiative leadership ability, and good citizenship practices. This objective is the basis for the activities that the Mentor High School chapter is involved with. Key Club has four major activities throughout the school year. In November, the members are hosts for the Senior Citizens Dinner/Dance. In December, the members go Christmas caroling at Heartland Nursing Home. In February, the club delivers flower bouquets to shut-ins around the Mentor area. In April, Key Club sends a gift of appreciation to the secretaries at the high school. In between the planning and organization of these events, Key Club has pizza and doughnut sales to raise a profit for a scholarship, which will be given to deserving senior members. Key Club is a unique way to help the community and develop pride in our school.

Say Good-bye to Stressed Seniors

Augh! Oh what a feeling. Stress, pressure, deadlines, headaches, and a bunch of fun filled the tiny yearbook office to which many of us call “home.” With two new advisors, Ms. Hilton and Ms. Swigris, a small crew of hard workers pulled together 256 pages of MHS history. Besides setbacks of computer breakdowns and a lack of pictures, we met each deadline, occasionally pulling an all-nighter. Aside from frazzled nerves and what seemed to be unachievable goals the yearbook staff always smiled and took time to bond.

As the holidays rolled through we continued to work diligently. From Halloween to Easter a spirit of happiness formed among our members. In celebration of Christmas a monument was set one holiday evening. A tree dressed with MHS pride stood tall all year long. The tree so awkwardly decorated with grey balloons and red megaphones always brought tears of laughter to the staff.

We’ve completed our task and with it formed treasured relationships and lasting memories. Without these dedicated people your 1992-93 Yearbook would have not been possible. Thanks to all who helped and hope you enjoy it as much as we enjoyed producing it.
Michelle and Natalie Did it!

Well, it has been a year for fun, stress, and yearbook. Long hours were spent and endless captions written to finish the 1992-93 yearbook. The nights rarely ended before 9:30 p.m. The lights were always shining in the tiny yearbook office as Natalie Neumann and Michelle Mismas typed their little fingers off. They fluttered around school making urgent phone calls to Taylor Publishing and snapping last minute pictures for tomorrow's deadline. But in the end the last page was shipped and the last picture was cropped and now they sit back and enjoy a break until the proofs are received. The two who made it all happen.

Top Left: Here we are! Solving problems.

Look at ME!!! Michelle Mismas smiles, one long and tiring night.
